

CENTRAL POWERS HARD PRESSED ON TWO FRONTS

Teutons Faced With Problems of Needed Reinforcement on Both East and West Lines.

LONDON, July 31.—The opening of the present week finds the prospects of the entente allies perhaps brighter than in any previous period of the war, according to the views held here, and the position of the central powers more discouraging. Gen. Brussiloff's victories present the German general staff with the imperative problem of how to reinforce the eastern front, since Gen. Von Linsingen, who was sent by the Germans to aid the shattered Austrians, now has been completely thrust back from the Lutsk salient.

But the same problem is presented on the western front, where, says an unofficial correspondent, the "ceaseless battle" seems steadily to gain in intensity. Doubtless the constant arrival of fresh German troops and guns, he adds, "has everything to do with this result. The enemy shows an increasing tendency to counter attack."

Fail to Stem Tide
These counter attacks have failed to stem the steady entente allied advance, and although at the present moment the fighting on the Somme is mainly devoted to securing mastery of small strategic positions, which will be the keys to further progress, there is yet no sign of the Germans making any effective counter offensive.

The Russians' remarkable victories reveal a most interesting situation. The army of the German general, Count von Bothmer, holding the Stripa near the Lemberg-Tarnopol railroad, was a few weeks ago being outflanked on the south by Gen. Letchitzky's successful advance, when the Dniester floods prevented Letchitzky's further progress. This enabled von Bothmer to hold onto the threatened positions. Gen. Sakharoff then devoted himself to enveloping von Bothmer's force on the north, with what success is seen in his double victory west of Lutsk and at Brody.

In Precarious Position.
Thus outflanked north and south, it is considered impossible that Count von Bothmer can longer delay extricating himself from his precarious position, even if he now can do so without serious losses. The Russians at Brody are at present nearer Lemberg than von Bothmer's forces, which are entrusted with Lemberg's defense, and although the country between Brody and Lemberg is very difficult, it becomes a question where the evacuation of both Kovel and Lemberg will not soon become necessary.

LAUNCH NEW ATTACKS.
The British and French forces fighting against the Germans in the Somme region of France, again have launched violent attacks and made progress, while the Russians in Volhynia, in the region of the Stokrod river, have forced the Germans to give further ground before their advance.

To the north of the Somme, trenches between Hill 129 and the river near Hardecourt, have been captured by the French on a depth from 200 to 300 metres, and in addition the French have pressed forward to the outskirts of the village of Maurepas, east of Hardecourt, and also captured positions north of Hem, which lies to the south of Maurepas, and held them against violent German counter attacks.

Driving with the French on their right flank from Delville wood to the Somme, the British made an advance on the entire line and also made further progress against the Germans, east of Waterlot farm, Trones wood and Maltzorn farm. To the north and west of Ypres, the German trenches were raided, while the Royal Munster fusiliers, of the Loos salient carried out a similar operation. The Germans raided a front line British trench near the Hohenzollern redoubt, but later were driven back.

International News Service:
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 31.—Christening the "Cruiser Camel" by breaking a bottle of grape juice over the hood, the prohibitionists opened their state campaign today. In a new automobile the campaign party, after the christening, started a tour of the streets here.

Tomorrow morning the party will strike a "water wagon" trail through southeastern Indiana, beginning a 5,000-mile tour, which will continue until election. The first stop will be made at Brookfield, where a street meeting will be held at 1:30. The itinerary provides for stops at London, Fairland, Shelbyville, Lewis Creek, Flat Rock, St. Paul, Waldron Adams Greensburg and other places to the southeast.

F. A. Gillespie and J. E. Maxwell, the advance men, have been in the field since Monday arranging a schedule for the campaigners. The advance car, traveling a week ahead of the campaign auto, will arrange for six meetings a day for the campaigners.

In the party will be State Chairman J. Raymond Schmidt, Dr. W. H. Hickman of Terre Haute, candidate for the short term for United States senator, and others. A moving picture machine will be used in connection with their addresses.

THEATERS

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Clever little Anita Stewart and his Harry Morey, supported by Julia Swayne Gordon, Charles Kent, E. K. Lincoln and Kate Price, are being seen at the Auditorium today in one of the best pictures ever given in that popular theater, "A Million Kids." The picture was shown at the Auditorium about two years ago and many requests for its return have been made. An extremely thrilling scene is shown aboard a wrecked yacht where all on board are in danger of being drowned.

"The Secret of the Submarine," a two reel sensational story, is also on the bill.

Bessie Barriscale, one of the most popular stars on the screen, will be seen tomorrow in a five reel Ince production, "The Sorrows of Love." The scenes of the picture are located in Italy, giving scope for some fine photoplay. Miss Barriscale has the part of Sister Beatrice. The plot concerns mainly her adventures in the outer world, after she has fled from the convent, believing she can find a greater mission outside its walls. How she meets and falls in love with a young laborer, only to meet tragedy and return again to the convent, has been absorbingly depicted, William Desmond, a clever player, appears in the leading male role.

"Bubbles of Troubles," a two reel Keystone comedy, will also be shown.

AT THE COLONIAL.

Lem Hardy, a Kentuckian (William Farnum), who comes from a long list of fighters, works in a Kentucky lumber camp which is owned by Henry Colby, a wealthy and aristocratic southern gentleman. Lem and Blake, the camp superintendent, each love Evie Colby (Dorothy Bernard), daughter of the lumber king. Lem is industrious; Blake, a gambler and intemperate. Evie prefers the former. Blake realizes that he is going to lose the girl of his choice and he decides to place a stigma on Lem.

Blake enlists the help of Gray, a lumberman, who dislikes Lem. Lem is sent to the bank for the company's payroll. When he returns with the money in a small satchel an empty satchel is substituted for the one he has brought. Lem is accused of stealing the payroll funds, convicted and sentenced to four years in prison. During his imprisonment Evie marries Blake, who, still gripped by the gambling fever, induces his father-in-law to plunge in the stock market.

Upon his discharge Lem becomes a minister and after some service in his native city he learns the truth of the frame-up. He goes west and by whipping the bully of the town gains the complete confidence of the miners. He discovers Blake deeper than ever in his evil ways. He is sent for to perform a forced marriage which he refuses to do and a fight with Blake ensues in which the latter is killed. Evie turns then to Lem and he points out the new life into which he purposes to lead her.

AT THE LASSALLE.

Hobart Bosworth will be featured at the LaSalle today in a five reel Red Feather production dealing with medical ethics entitled "Doctor Neighbor." This subject takes up in pictorial form the mooted question as to whether a doctor should under any circumstances take the life of a patient in order to save unnecessary suffering, when death is but a matter of time, or the patient doomed to a shattered mentality in case of recovery. Dealing as it does with the problem of human suffering, it contains many scenes that are far from cheerful, and yet the theme is presented in a manner that avoids skillfully the merely sordid or depressing. Doctor Neighbor is the guardian of a young heiress. Though he himself is in love with her, he stands back when she gives her hand in marriage to a younger lover. The latter proves later that his love was largely inspired by a desire to gain her fortune. The vital feature of the plot is reached when the young wife meets with an automobile accident. This scene is well staged and affords opportunity for intense dramatic action.

"The Mysteries of Myra" series will also be shown today. Tyrone Power, the noted English actor, and Lois Weber will be featured in Tuesday's picture at the LaSalle, which is entitled "The Eye of God." The atmosphere of the tale is so convincing that it gives a distinctly fresh impression and makes an offering that can be heartily commended.

The reflector, 100 inches in diameter, for the Mt. Wilson observatory in California, which will be finished early next year, will be the largest mirror ever cast. It will be 13 inches thick and will contain, in one solid piece, four and one-half tons of glass.
